Description: Its colour strikes you like an accommodating summer raspberry cordial and you won't be disappointed by its fragrance, either. Ripe raspberry, freshly picked from the prickly bush and its juices dripping. There's a slight trace of caramelised sugar behind the fruitiness which only makes it more endearing and friendly. This returns in the taste as the impulsive acidic character and the creamy feel of alcohol, the fresh fruitiness and suave, sweetish flavour interplay. A slight effervescence has remained in it, it is still fresh after the second sip, the fruitiness is crisp, it tastes good on the tongue and when one takes the next draught.
